Dear Unforgotten "Pareja,"

For years I've been saying, "Someday there is going to be a Day like Saunders on which the honored guests will be the couples among the alumni and ex-students who began their romances as college mates on our campus and continued them as marriage mates in their own homes." I never dreamed that my romantic wish could be realized, but this year the Saunders Day Committee has chosen to make it come true.

It gives me great satisfaction to expect you as guests at the dinner at six o'clock on February twenty-seventh where I hope you will have fun with your friends and fellow-victims of Cupid's inescapable plots, and also share with them in informal discussion groups the wisdom and wit which your family life has given you.

Please let us know soon that you are coming, and do not allow any unhappy circumstance to force you to sadden us with any reply but a glad acceptance.

Affectionately and expectantly yours,
Mary Alice Lamar
